

If you are wondering whether you should submit a GRE, GMAT, or GMAC Executive Assessment score with your application, we can help.

NYU | STERN

Online Master of Science in Quantitative Management

Will your application demonstrate consistently successful completion of your prior coursework?

Will your application include evidence of successful completion of quantitative courses that include the topics listed on our Program Prerequisites page?

Will your application include previous work experience or professional certifications that demonstrate a strong command of quantitative concepts?

Excellent! It may not be necessary for you to submit a GRE, GMAT, or GMAC Executive Assessment result with your application.

Please note:

If you are admitted and did not submit a GRE or GMAT analytical writing test score with your application materials and do not submit a passing grade for an approved business writing course, you will take the Stern writing test. If you do not pass, you must take NYU Stern's Business Writing course.

Great! It may not be necessary for you to submit a GRE, GMAT, or GMAC Executive Assessment result with your application.

However, submitting a score may strengthen your application, especially if you have not successfully completed quantitative coursework.

Please note:

If you are admitted and did not submit a GRE or GMAT analytical writing test score with your application materials and do not submit a passing grade for an approved business writing course, you will take the Stern writing test. If you do not pass, you must take NYU Stern's Business Writing course.

We recommend submitting a GRE, GMAT, or GMAC Executive Assessment score with your MSQM application.

We also recommend speaking with an MSQM Admissions Counselor if you have questions.
