

Biography

Subadra Rajappa

Managing Director, Head of US Rates Strategy

Subadra Rajappa is Head of US Rates Strategy at Societe Generale. In her current role she is responsible for publishing thematic research on US rates markets and highlighting relevant trading opportunities. She is a frequent speaker at industry conferences and broadcast media where she presents her market views to a broader audience. She has over 20 years of experience in the financial industry. Previous at Morgan Stanley, she was a senior rates strategist focused on macro themes in the rates markets. She was also the lead strategist covering many topics and presenting in-depth research in fixed-income derivatives, inflation, money markets and the evolving regulatory environment. She has extensive experience in global fixed-income markets including positions in research, sales and quantitative analysis at Morgan Stanley and Citigroup.